CURRENT SITUATION

Situation Summary:	Mountain Fire activity will remain active throughout the night. This is due to above-average temperatures, poor relative humidity recovery, and down canyon winds. Winds will be light in the night and morning hours, with up valley winds picking up in the afternoons and evenings. The fire is burning in steep, broken terrain in different types of vegetation. All fuels are at or approaching critical levels for dryness. Personnel are engaging in structure defense and strengthening control lines. More resources are continuing to arrive.
